

RIVERLIFE PROJECT

CORE AIMS

The RiverLife project wants to support local groups and people to deliver a wide range of benefits, these are the core aims of our project. We want the grants available to create as much benefit as possible, so these aims act as guides.

The river environment is for everyone

Communities can be empowered to improve their environment for the good of people and wildlife

People know that the rivers have been and will remain critical to societies needs

The rivers are a corridor for people and animals, all can move along without being impeded, where possible

The rivers reflect our history and actions upon the landscape, we can use lessons from the past to guide the future

People can be encouraged to enjoy the rivers in a responsible manner

People know and value the wildlife that lives in and around the rivers

The river environment can be supported by collective positive actions
